COMMISSIONER OF JURORS.—The office of Commissioner of Jururs, which has been filled by the Hon, William A. Walker since the year 1847, is about to become vacant in consequence of the acceptance, by Mr. Walker, of the sea in Congress to which he was elected by the people of the VIIth District a year ago. The Commissioner of Jurors, it is said, can make as much money as his conscience will allow, without violation of law. The salary is $2,500, and no caths are required; and he is expected to assign no ressons to any one for his action, which is final, in the matter of excusing citizens from jury duty. The candidates for this office are very numerous, and the prize will be contained for with great zeal and industry by Col. Andrew Warner, Judge U. D. French, William P. Moss. Sherman Brownell, Gov. Edward C. West, Capt. James Leonard Capt Mathew T. Brennau, John Chambers, R. D. Livingston, Dr. Stephen Hasbrouck, Benjamin H. Jarvis, Wm. Sinclair, and twenty or thirty more active politicians. The appointment is made by a Convention, consisting of the Board of Aldermen, the Mayor the Recorder, and the Judges of the Superior and Common Pleas Courts. In previous times the Judges have not participated in oaucus action upon this appointment, yet they have abided the caucus decision and voted for the caucus candidates; but they will not be likely to do so in the present instance

PALMER'S THEASHING MACHINE.—The trial of this machine, with a new horse power at Jackson Ferry, did not take place Saturday as advertised, owing to the state of the Crystal Palace. The horse power is new in this region, though common in Virginia and North Carolina. Eight arms. from 10 to 20 feet long, fixed into a hub on an upright cen or shaft, supported by iron braces from the top of the shaft, which is about two feet above the hub, are braced apart at the ends by wooden braces, forming a frame of a great horl zental wheel. The horses are fastened to the arms inside of the wooden braces which constitute the rim of the whoel. The driving power is a belt of rope, raw hide or chain, work. ing in the forked ends of the arms and thence to the wheel to or driven. In the present case, to an increasing speed hand wheel, intermediate between the horse power and threshed the chain working on the hub (about a foot diameter) of wirel some ex feet diemeter, from which a leathern band runs to the smell pully of the threater, so that horses walking rapidly, and throwing off a bend power from a 72 feet when a one foot pully, which carries a hand from a 6 feet wheel to a 4 inch puty, the speed of the thracker must be very great and in that lies the secret of thrushing to rapidly as this description of machines have done, as we are well as said and as this one appeared capable of doing Saturday. To the thrasher is attached a straw carrier, grain separator and facular mill, with machinery to measure and deliver the grain in the bage. We have no doubt of the shifty of the inventor to do all this, when he gots all the multiple to palays, hands wheels riddles, sorows, stores, rollers and and right to work all together, yet we would just as soon tak of buying a locomotive cotton factory as we woulthis complicated place of machinery for use on the fare. The house power and threshor are both good: the experate is too good - but these is too much of it, and it is too compile oud for the one of farmers in general, in our opinion. Of course it is but a single opinion, and may be taken for what it is worth. The inventor promises a more perfect trial of all his machinery on Thoroday, in the open space at Jack-son Ferry, which is near the upper and of Water et four oqueres below Grand et Forry, when we hope all who are interested will give it a martal examination

Bosworth, J.—The plaintiff, a physician and sargoon, brought this action to recover for professional services upen P. Teniat, who was injured by being run over by defendant's cars. The services were rendered upon a previces promise of a Superintendent of the Company that the latter would pay for them. The powers of the Superintendent, according to the evidence given at the trial, related solely to running the trains as prescribed by the Company, employing men for the purpose and providing for the accomplishment of this result. He had not, on any other occasion, employed a physician or surgeon. He had not been held out by the Company as having such authority, and his acts in this case find not been raified by the Company. It did not appear that l'eniat was injured by the negligence of defendants. The plaintiff was nonsuited, and from the judgment rendered he appeals.

Westervelt & Bogart agt. Mark Levy.

Rosworth, J.—One Paris contracted to erect a building for defendant, and did so. A balance of $1,531 81 baing due Purss, he assigned the contract to the plaintiffs.
They bring this action to recover that balance. The dofense was that mechanics and material—men claiming to have liens for labor and materials had taken the proper steps to create a lien on the house and list for such sums as they should prove to be due on their claims, which amounted to more than the balance owing by defendants. The nesser did not aver, nor did defendant prove, that these claims were actually valid, and that the amount of them was actually owing, but merely averred that the proper steps had been taken to assert the claims and coate liens for such sums as might appear to be due. Judgment was given in favor of the plaintiffs for the amount due, and from that judgment the defendant appeals.

Held, that the mere service of notices under the lien favor of the claimants for such amounts as they shall prove to be due, is no bar to an action by the original centractor against the owner, it not being shown that such claims are valid, nor that anything is actually due on them.

Thomas Paten et al. vs. J. J. V. Westervelt.

Bosworth, J.—This was an action for faisely returning three executions aulla bena. The defense was, that two or three executions were held by the Sheriff when those came to his hands, and that the property was only suiteient to satisfied, and left a surplus of some $12, which was applicable to the other, being in favor of Vyse, which had been satisfied, and left a surplus of some $12, which was spilicable to the other, being in favor of Toler. The plaintiff insisted that the Toler execution was dormant and the Sheriff was so bound to regard it; that the Toler payment was confessed with interest to hinder delay and defraudereditors; that the Sheriff had been so notified by the plaintiffs while all the executions were in is hands, and therefore that facts might be proved on this trial, and if proved would show the returns false and the plaintiffs entitled to recover. The Toler execution had been actually returned nulla bena before this action was brought. The plaintiffs were nonsuited and appeal from the judgment entered on the nonsuit.

Held that the Sheriff was not bound to treat the Tolor execution as dormant; that the plaintiffs could not show in this action that the Tolor judgment was confassed with interest to defraud creditors; that the defendant could not justify the return upon the plaintiffs executions, by showing that on the Tolor execution to be false. That in order to justify a return of nulla bone, where the debtor had leviable property, he must show either a prior execution fally executed, and an application of the proceeds of the property upon it, or such prior execution in his hands unreturned, and the power and duty continuing, to apply the remaining proceeds upon it. The Superintendant of Streetz, after posting a notice that unless a quentry of pig iron which had been unladen at one of the Piers should be removed within three days it would be sent to the public yard, early in the forenoon of the third day the workmen commenced to remove it, and pointiff had to pay a considerable sum to get it back. He brought seit for said amount, and recovered a verifict against the Superintendant, &c., of between $200 and $300. Miction is made for a new trial, principally on the ground that the law requires incumbrances to be removed within a certain time, agreeably to notice, and that the notice in this case said twenty four hours. It appeared the notice was made by fastening it up on a post of the Pier. The first notice was blown down, and the second, which staid twenty four hours, was posted afterwards. The Coart said that the Superintendant, to defend himself from such a suit, must show that he exactly conformed to law. Judgment for plaintiff after med.

To recover pension money said to have been obtained by defendant on papers procurred from plaintiff, it is adeged by wrong representations, owing to which representations plaintiff agreed that defendant should retain three quarters of what he received. He received $300 and paid plaintiff $123. On the trial the Jury found the agreement to be void, and that defendant was entitled only to $30 fath had a second tree of the services and redered a verdict subject to adjust ment. Judgment for plaintiff affirmed for $355 and interest.
